HEALTH MINISTRY NOTES

Eat your vegetables! How often have we heard those words in our youth? Before the age of supplements, the only way to get your daily quota of nutrients was to eat your vegetables. Personally, I would rather enjoy a nice colorful crispy salad made with fresh ingredients than from a handful of supplements with ingredients whose names I can't pronounce even with a chemistry background. Winter was often a time of canned or freshly frozen vegetables. But come Spring, the greens became the thing. Starting with dandelion greens followed by asparagus and endive. In short order, an array of color came from the garden. My mouth is watering thinking about fresh peas, red radishes, white spring onions, yellow sweet corn, sweet peppers, cauliflower and broccoli, juicy red tomatoes, and leafy lettuce. Mmmm, Mmmmm, good! So be colorful and eat your vegetables! If you don't have a garden you can always go to the farmers market and choose a variety there. Enjoy and be healthy!
